

BURGLARS ARE STILL ACTIVE

Second Attempt Made to Rob the Pennsylvania Railroad Ticket Office.

COX'S DRUG STORE ENTERED.

Several Dollars Secured at Latter Place. Cigars and Candy Taken.

Thieves were active in Seymour again last night. The Pennsylvania station was broken into and Alpha Cox's drug store was robbed.

The first of the two raids was at the Pennsylvania and it was the second attempt made within the past few weeks to rob the railroad company.

While Jesse Himler, night man at the station, was delivering the mail from the 9:16 train to the post office, an entrance to the ticket office was effected by prying open a west window. The thieves found the money drawer locked but they pulled it out and in doing so, tore the front part off. No money was secured. Mr. Himler having placed the cash in the safe before starting for the post office. The police were called after his return but no trace of the thieves could be found. It was about 9:30 when the office was broken into.

Entry to the Cox store was secured through a back window. About five dollars in change was taken from the cash register. Part of a box of cigars in the show case and a quantity of candy kisses in the front show window were also appropriated.

The robbery occurred about 10:15. Mr. Cox started for home about 10:00 o'clock and Mrs. Cole closed her establishment just south of the Cox store at the same time. She went up-stairs and had been there but a few moments when her attention was attracted by a noise in the rear of the Cox store. Looking out of a back window she saw two men. After a few moments whispered conversation, she heard a window opened and one of the men disappeared in the store. He was gone but a few moments. When he came out the two men went east and around to the lot in the rear of the Blish building where they started to count their money. She turned out the gas and hurried down stairs to telephone for the officers. The light going out evidently attracted the attention of the thieves and Miss Ruth Cole, who was watching, saw them hurry away, going east on St. Louis Avenue.

Mrs. Cole telephoned to the city building, but the officers were out on their beats. She left word with the telephone operator and later the latter called the officers and told them of the robbery. They came and after looking around closed the door and window which had been left open at the Cox store.

Mrs. Cole had a revolver in the room but was naturally much excited. When the men were in the rear of the store she thought at first that possibly Mr. Cox had returned and was looking around the premises.

While it was too dark for her to be able to secure an accurate description of the men, they appeared to be well dressed. One wore a derby hat and the other a cap.

There is no longer any doubt in the minds of officers and citizens that the frequent robberies which have occurred during the past few weeks, are the work of local people. Not since the night the first robberies were committed, has any attempt been made to open safes. The plan seems to be to get into a business house, examine the cash register and cash drawer and leave the place as quickly as possible.

The people are becoming much aroused. The officers do not seem to be able to catch the thieves and various plans for accomplishing this, are being discussed. It was thought that the bringing of the bloodhounds here Saturday, while not resulting in a capture, would have a salutary effect. However the robberies go on as before.

A BIG HAUL

Made By Robbers Which Has Been Kept Secret.

The fact that the robbers made a big haul on the night the Stanfield-Carlson and Kessler stores were burglarized, was just made public today.

On that night Herman Chambers, proprietor of the interurban lunch rooms and local agent for the I. C. & S. and the I. & L., was robbed of $46.80.

The night man closed the station at 3 a. m. and between that hour and 5 o'clock, the robbery occurred.

The thief entered through the large transom over the front door and obtained the money from the cash register. The cash belonged to Chambers, the company's money having been deposited earlier in the evening.

Mr. Chambers kept the matter quiet after the police had been notified, in the hope that some clue might be found. But as in other cases suspicion has not been directed toward any particular person.

A stranger entered the home of N. T. Moore Tuesday evening but was frightened away before he could take anything. He reached the hall upstairs by climbing the back porch and through a window.

More Freight Trains.

Two more freight trains have been put on between St. Louis and Cincinnati. They are numbers 88 and 89. Number 88 arrives every morning from St. Louis about 11 o'clock and leaves about an hour later. These two trains will pick up Q. D. freight at points between Cincinnati and St. Louis. They have been running these two trains for some time as extras and they will now be put on the time card as regular trains. There has been some talk of a freight train number 53 to be called the Atlantic City Freight but it has not been decided whether or not this train will be run. —Washington Democrats.

THE CHILDREN GAVE A PARADE

At Brownstown This Morning to Aid the Dry Forces.—Visited the Polls.

THREE TOWNSHIPS ARE VOTING

Today in Local Option Elections.—All Three Carried by Drys Two Years Ago.

The voters of Carr, Brownstown and Vernon townships are deciding today whether those townships shall remain dry. While indications seem to be that the temperance forces will win, there is a spirited contest in each township.

The elections have not been attended with as much bitterness as was the case two years ago.

Should the "wets" win today, there will probably be saloons in each of the three townships after the meeting of the board of commissioners next week. Notices that applications will be made to sell liquor in Brownstown, Crothersville and Medora have already been published.

The school board at Brownstown ordered the dismissal of school for the day.

This morning under the direction of the "drys" there was a parade of school children at the county seat it being intended as an appeal to the voters to keep out the saloons as a protection for the young. All the polling places were visited.

At the county local option election held April 26, 1909 each of the three townships, which are voting today gave majorities for the drys. The majority in Brownstown township was 121, Carr 118, Vernon 124. The vote was as follows:

BROWNSTOWN TOWNSHIP.

GENTRY BROS. SHOW

Good Parade Witnessed by a Big Crowd this Morning.

The Gentry dog and pony show is always popular as was indicated by the crowd that witnessed the parade this morning. The public schools were dismissed so that the children might enjoy it. The parade was good and the number of animals was larger than usual. There should be a good attendance this evening for the performance at 8 o'clock.

He was aged 55 and had been a prosperous farmer. The funeral services will be held at the German Lutheran church in Jonesville Saturday afternoon.

Shed Burned.

The fire department was called to the home of Albert Mains on West Brown last night about 11:45 o'clock, fire having been discovered in the wood shed in the back of the lot.

The shed burned to the ground but as there was no property of value in it the loss will not exceed $50. It is not known how the fire originated. The property belongs to Mrs. J. H. Droege.

The Seymour base ball club has been reorganized. Several new players have been added, making the team stronger than it was last year. The boys expect to win honors this season. They will play their opening game Sunday with Bedford, Bennett and Lucas will form the battery. The team will leave here Sunday morning over the Southeastern line.

FINAL REPORT WILL BE FILED

Soon by S. A. Barnes Who Was Appointed Assignee to Settle Affairs of Arthur H. DeGolyer.

WHO DISAPPEARED IN 1909.

No Money For the General Creditors. They Will Lose Nearly $22,000. Total Liabilities.

The sensation caused by the disappearance of Arthur DeGolyer, two years ago last month, is recalled by the announcement that a final settlement of his affairs is to be made.

DeGolyer was one of the best known real estate men in this section of the state and when he suddenly left here March 20, 1909, many people were greatly surprised. He never returned and his whereabouts at present are unknown.

Following his disappearance, it was found that his financial affairs were in very bad condition and the court appointed S. A. Barnes, assignee to straighten them out.

He has just completed his final report and will file it in court this week.

The report shows that the total resources turned over to the assignee amounted to $13,978.78, consisting of real estate and personal property. He paid off mortgages on real estate amounting to $10,706.84 and preferred claims for $429.41. This left a net balance for distribution of $1073.75 and by order of court this goes to DeGolyer's wife to compensate her for loss of one third interest in the real estate sold to satisfy the mortgages.

There is therefore no money for the general creditors. The claims of the latter which were filed amounted to $11,516.40. The claims were allowed but there is no money to satisfy them.

There is also known indebtedness amounting to $10,400 for which no claims have been filed. The total liabilities of DeGolyer when he left, amounted therefore to $33,052.65.

Missionary Thank Offering.

The ladies of the W. F. M. S. of the M. E. Church will hold their annual thank offering services at the church next Wednesday evening. Quite a number of excellent speakers will be present and short talks will be given on objects and plans of missionary work. Every member of the church should hear these talented women and all persons who are interested in missionary work, will be benefited and helped by attending.

A very cordial invitation is extended to Missionary Societies of other churches.

The Seymour Public Service did a clever bit of advertising this morning. On the B. & O. S-W. siding opposite the city building is a carload of old iron which happens to be made up almost entirely of old stoves. A placard was attached to the side of the car which reads "These stoves were replaced by gas ranges."

FACTS WORTH KNOWING,

Concerning Nature's Way to Health.

This is an age of progress in the world of medicine as well as in arts and science. Old customs, old habits, old modes of life are giving way to new to keep pace with the march of progress.

Men of science are no longer hesitating to denounce the false theories of the past. Inventor, Edison, the electrical "wizard," among other things, says:

"Medicine is played out. The doctor of the future will give no medicine, but will instruct his patient in the care of the human frame, in diet, and in the cause and prevention of disease."

These are strong words, and in the main an endorsement of osteopathy. Edison's position is one worthy of investigation by all seekers of health.

That the people are doing their own thinking now more than ever before is self evident. In no age has non-medical methods of treatment been so prominent. Even physicians themselves are quietly abandoning the use of drug remedies.

The old method of bleeding and purging, depleting the sick, keeping them in the dark with but little food and less water, filling their already weakened systems with large doses of calomel, antimony and arsenic, have gone forever.

It has been demonstrated that a thing may be both new and true. A description of an automobile would have shocked the wise men of long ago. Why not improve upon old methods of healing as well as upon old ways of locomotion?

Overwhelming proof prevails that osteopathy cures where other methods fail. It has been tested by all classes of people and tried in untold numbers of cases until its place in the realm of scientific therapeutics is abundantly proven to be superior to old methods.

This is a personal message to you, sick friend. Many sick people would get well if they only knew the osteopathic way, which is the surer and better way, yet it is unknown to many and there can be no reason for hesitating to tell others about it. It is not claimed to be a cure-all, yet its scope and range cannot be measured by the failures of other schools for it is restoring stubborn, chronic cases that they have abandoned.

Suppose you look into the merits of osteopathy here in Seymour. A trial will convince that most of the common ills of life are seen with a new understanding, treated accordingly, invariably cured or greatly benefited, evidencing that the osteopaths are finding the keys and opening the seals and coming into possession of the glorious heritage to mankind—health, and through Nature's own methods.

WILL LOOK INTO CASE OF HERBERT WILLIAMS

Said to Be Held As a Slave
In Yucatan.

Washington, April 26.—James J. Williams, president of the State Bank of Hillsboro, Ind., is in Washington in an effort to obtain the release of his brother, Herbert Williams, a former resident of Indianapolis, who, it is alleged, is held in peonage by the half civilized natives of Yucatan, Mexico. In company with Representative Moss, Mr. Williams called on Senator Kern and obtained a promise from Mr. Kern that he would take the case up with the state department at once.

Herbert Williams left Indianapolis early in the spring of 1906, and his brother, the Hillsboro banker, has been endeavoring to find him ever since. Finally he obtained a clue that Herbert was practically held as a slave in Yucatan. He sought the advice of Governor Marshall. The governor advised Mr. Williams to come to Washington and lay the case before Senator Kern, who in turn would seek the aid of the state department. When Williams left home in 1906 it was with the avowed intention of going to New Zealand.

SHOOK THE HOUSE

Alleged Dynamiter Held in Jail at Bedford.

Bedford, Ind., April 26.—John Hughes of the quarry district is in jail charged with an attempt to wreck the home of William Childers with dynamite.

Hughes, a cousin of Childers, has been living with the Childers family and recently after a disagreement, Hughes, it is said, threatened to blow up the house with dynamite. Either to frighten the family or to destroy the house, he is alleged to have exploded dynamite near the house, causing it to shake and breaking the window panes.

Neighborhood Sentiment Changes.

North Vernon, Ind., April 26.—M. D. Tyler, who was mutilated by a mob of masked men a week ago, is now thought to be out of danger. Excitement in the neighborhood was at fever heat for a while, and until the facts were known the members of the mob were bitterly condemned. However, sentiment has almost wholly changed, and there may be no action by the authorities until the grand jury, next month.

SAFELY LANDED IN COUNTY JAIL

Long Trip for Alleged Dynamiters
Is Ended.

DEMONSTRATION WAS LACKING

Though Hundreds Gathered About Entrance to Los Angeles Jail to See Now Famous Prisoners Enter, the Guards Were Adequate to the Occasion and There Was No Demonstration or Undue Excitement.

Los Angeles, April 27.—The three men accused of complicity in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building here the morning of Oct. 1 last were rushed into the county jail yesterday afternoon, and in a few minutes had been booked and put in separate cells, thus ending the dash half way across the continent which followed their arrest. Hundreds of people crowded about the entrance to the jail, but were held back by a squad of deputy sheriffs.

When the prisoner who has been known as James W. McNamara and who is said to have passed as J. B. Bryce in San Francisco, was booked he gave his middle initial as "B." instead of "W." and his occupation as a printer. Ortie E. McManigal was booked as an iron worker, and John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Association of Iron Workers, did not give any occupation.

J. B. McNamara and McManigal were taken from the California Limited at Pasadena and put in an auto, which covered the ten miles between that city and the county jail at high speed. J. J. McNamara remained on the train until Raymond station was reached, when he was taken off, put in another auto and brought to the jail in the same manner, arriving only two minutes behind his companions. Large crowds waited at the main station in Pasadena and at the Arcade station in this city to see the prisoners, but the arrangements which had been made were kept secret and few knew how they were to be taken to the jail until they were rushed through in the waiting automobiles.

Joked With the Officers.

James B. McNamara learned Tuesday that his brother was on the train, but J. J. McNamara was in ignorance of the nearness of the former until they arrived at Pasadena, where he saw his brother and McManigal taken off the train. McManigal was in good humor and joked with the officers when they had trouble taking the handcuffs from his wrists. James B. McNamara, nervous, sullen and profane throughout the trip, seemed even more nervous here, but looked questioners straight in the eye and seldom answered their inquiries. After the men had been searched, weighed and measured and the contents of their pockets taken from them, they were locked up. McManigal was put in cell No. 9, while the McNamaras were put in a tank until separate cells can be arranged. With the three men in jail developments of the utmost importance are certain within a few hours. Mrs. D. H. Ingersoll will be taken to the jail to see J. B. McNamara, and it is expected she will identify him as J. B. Bryce, a lodger in her rooming house in San Francisco a few weeks prior to the destruction of the Times building here and the sacrifice of twenty-one lives. She made the identification at Pasadena as McNamara was being hustled from the train into the auto. Accompanied by a woman friend and a chauffeur, Mrs. Ingersoll went to Pasadena a short time before the train arrived. As McNamara appeared she exclaimed: "That's Bryce." She did not go to the jail, but today she probably will do so and officially confirm her identification.

Mrs. Ingersoll's expected identification of Jim McNamara is one of the most important factors in the conviction of the accused. Bryce, with two other men, bought 500 pounds of dynamite at Giant, Cal., early in September, took it away from the powder works in a launch; stored a large part of it in a vacant building in south San Francisco, and brought the remainder to Los Angeles. Part of this was used in wrecking the Times building, and the remainder, it is asserted, in the infernal machines placed in the homes of General Harrison Gray Otis, owner of the Times, and F. J. X. Zeehandelaar, secretary of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' association.

Three attorneys already have been engaged in the defense of the men, but no attempt has been made to obtain writs of habeas corpus. The lawyers are Austin Lewis of Oakland, a prominent Socialist; Job Harriman of Los Angeles, also prominent in Socialism, and O. N. Hilton, until recently of Denver. Whatever legal move they decided to make probably will be made today.

No Place For Outsiders.

Tangier, April 27.—The British legation has received a dispatch from Fez dated April 21, which says that the consuls will leave with European citizens as soon as the road to Tangier is open. The dispatch confirmed the capture of Mequinez and the proclaiming of Abdul Aziz's brother, Mulai Zedd, as sultan.

OLD PAPERS

Which Recall Former Well Known
Seymour People.

In tearing down the old building, lately vacated by the Adam's Express Co. and which was built fifty-four years ago for the J. M. & I. depot, H. F. Cordes, found some interesting old papers. They recall some of the men who were in business here when Seymour was in its infancy.

On one side of the building a secret money drawer was found and in it were a dozen or more Western Union telegrams dated as far back as 1868.

One was to Peter Carter who at that time had a store where the Seymour Gas and Light Co. is now located. Another was to Dr. Gerish, father of the present Dr. M. F. Gerish. It was from Dr. Sackett of Jonesville calling him there to see a patient.

Many Seymour people will remember Eph Haws, who served as a conductor on the J. M. & I. for a number of years and who it is believed, is still living. One message was for him and another was for G. W. Murphy, who was then cashier of the First National Bank and the father of Engineer Bruce Murphy of the B. & O. The Western Union rates were probably higher then, than now as some of the messages of only three or four words were marked "collect fifty-five cents." A number of freight bills were found which were dated 1871. They are quite different from those used by the company today.

SEYMOUR TEAM

Will Play Ball at Bedford Next Sunday.

The Bedford Mail says:

The Seymour base ball team will journey to this city Sunday for a game with the Champs, at Washington Park. The Champs will, of the first time this season, be given a chance to work against a left hand twirler. Bennett, who will occupy the mound for the Seymour team, has quite a reputation as a side wheeler, and is well known in this city. He pitched a nice game against the locals last season, losing by a close score of 5 to 3.

Manager Lucas claims to have a first class team, and believes that his aggregation can wallop the Champs.

IRON IN THE BLOOD

is an essential element to health.

When it is insufficient or lacking, there is a dearth of red blood corpuscles, which causes anaemia and a run-down condition of the entire system, with consequent bodily weakness.

In order to restore the blood to a healthy condition, iron must be supplied in an easily assimilated form. We guarantee this may be done by Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, made without oil.

This combination of two world-famed tonics, restores to the blood the elements lacking to make rich, red blood, which imparts strength and vitality to every organ in the body.

J. Edmund Miller, of New Haven, Conn., says their little girl had been frail and sickly ever since her birth. Vinol was recommended and they tried it, and immediately noticed an improvement in her condition. They continued its use and it built her up, until they cannot recommend it too highly to build up a weakened system." The Andrews Drug Co.

COURT HAD NO JURISDICTION

To Turn McNamara Over to Detectives.

THE PROSECUTOR SO DECLARES

Detectives and Others Under Bond at Indianapolis on Kidnapping Charges Have Reason to Fear That Prosecution Against Them Will Be Made Anything but a Joke—Prosecutor Says Police Judge Had No Right.

Indianapolis, April 27.—Over the arrest and taking away to California of J. J. McNamara, serious complications have arisen here, and friends of the detectives and others who are under bond on kidnapping charges fear that the prosecutions against them will be made anything but a joke. The seriousness of the situation became apparent when Prosecutor Baker took the ground that McNamara had been illegally taken from the state; that Judge Collins of the police court, who turned McNamara over to Detective Burns after identification was wholly without jurisdiction in the case and that the men who spirited the iron workers' secretary from the state are guilty of kidnapping.

When the charge was first made and labor leaders swore out warrants for the arrest of Burns, Ford, Drew and others, there were those who considered the whole thing a joke, and the defendants in the kidnapping proceedings themselves laughed over it, but when lawyers began an investigation there was found good cause for believing that a mistake had been made and that all the parties and, indeed, Judge Collins also, were liable under the kidnapping statute to fine and imprisonment.

Ought to Have Had Hearing.

Prosecutor Baker is not assumed to be in sympathy with the cry that has gone up from organized labor over the arrest of McNamara, but is looking at the situation from the viewpoint of a public officer only. After carefully investigating the law in respect to extradition of criminals, which provides only for the arrest of fugitives from justice, Mr. Baker said that McNamara ought to have been tried here, and that after the issuing of the requisition by the governor, which was entirely regular, all the proceedings were illegal. He says when McNamara was taken before Judge Collins for a hearing on the question of identity it was the duty of Judge Collins to notify the prosecuting attorney before proceeding with the case. The section of the statute which he says required Judge Collins to do this, and which section he says the judge did not follow, is one passed by the last legislature, amending an act of 1905.

That Judge Collins had absolutely no jurisdiction to hear and determine the matter of extradition in the McNamara case, is the opinion expressed not only by Mr. Baker, but by other lawyers, and they base this opinion on a law which says the sheriff or constable making the arrest shall take the fugitive before the circuit, superior or criminal court or judge of this state nearest and most convenient of access, to the place where the arrest was made. The section does not say anything about taking the fugitive before a city judge, and lawyers say that Judge Collins was wholly without jurisdiction.

Prosecutor Baker says the taking away of McNamara was illegal for this reason, also, and that it constituted kidnapping. It is understood Burns will take the position that he did not know Judge Collins had no jurisdiction to hear the extradition proceedings; that he will say he had no means of knowing the limitation of the jurisdiction of the court, and that when the court assumed jurisdiction and ordered McNamara to be turned over to the California agent he believed the court was acting in a legal manner. The defense of the others will be along the same lines, it is said. Burns left last night for Chicago, saying he would be back in a couple of days.

DARROW TOO OLD

To Take Up Defense of Alleged Dynamiters, He Says.

Chicago, April 27.—Clarence Darrow, the noted criminal lawyer, who freed Moyer, Pettibone and Haywood in the famous Western Federation of Miners' case, has returned from Indianapolis, and has authorized the statement that he would not consent to act as chief counsel for J. J. McNamara, J. W. McNamara and Ortie McManigal, who are accused of complicity in dynamiting outrages.

"I am too well along in years," he said, "to undertake so arduous a defense."

Another Revolution Nipped.

San Juan, Porto Rico, April 27.—Federal officials here have arrested former President Morales and former President Jimenez of San Domingo, together with Zenon Torribas of the same country, on a charge of preparing to organize a military expedition against the Dominican republic. Papers and documents seized at a hotel led to the arrest.

IF YOU USE
Black Silk
Stove Polish

It makes old stoves look like new and lasts four times as long as any other shine. Don't imagine all brands of stove polish are alike. Black Silk is different. It's so much better than other stove polishes that there is absolutely no comparison. It's in a class all by itself.

It makes a brilliant, glossy shine that anneals to the iron—don't rub or dust off. Give it a trial. Try it on your parlor stove—your cook stove or your gas range. If you do not find it the best stove polish you ever used, your dealer is authorized to refund your money.

Here is what some of the ladies write us:

"I like Black Silk Stove Polish better than any I have ever used. People say, 'where did you get your new stove, and I tell them it's Black Silk Stove Polish that makes it look like new.'"

"I will not use any other kind when I can get Black Silk Stove Polish. It makes stoves look nicer and stay nice longer than any other polish."

"Black Silk Stove Polish is by far the best I ever used. I have tried many different kinds but find none as good."

"I like Black Silk Stove Polish better than any I ever used. Several parties in this neighborhood are anxious to get some of your polish since they saw my stove after using it."

Placed in Jail.

Frank Little, of Seymour, was arrested by Officer Wood and Carmichael Tuesday night for intoxication. In default of paying he was taken back to jail.—Columbus Herald.

A Hopeful Message to Scalp Sufferers and Men Who's Hair is Thinning.

Dandruff now—bald later. The same is true of scalp diseases. In fact baldness is a scalp disease. The trouble with the greasy salves and scalp cures you have tried so far is that they don't do anything but temporarily relieve the itching and cake the dandruff so it doesn't fall until its dried out again. Nothing can cure—really cure such troubles but a scalp medicine that will kill the germs causing dandruff and scalp diseases.

Learning from leading fellow druggists throughout America that they had found a whirlwind cure for dandruff, eczema and all diseases of the skin and scalp the A. J. Pellens Drug Store on proving to the laboratories compounding the treatment that it is the most prominent drug store in this city secured the agency for the remedy. This remedy is ZEMO, the clean, liquid preparation that kills the germ of disease and ZEMO SOAP to wash the scalp or skin clear and clean of the dandruff or scale and by its antiseptic qualities soothe and heal.

Sold and guaranteed by druggists everywhere and in Seymour by A. J. Pellens.

George Bartlett represented the Seymour Woolen Factory Co. at a meeting of Indiana wool buyers held in Indianapolis today.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. STRENUOUS DOINGS FOR THE PRESIDENT

New Yorkers Keep Mr. Taft On the Run.

New York, April 27.—President Taft got here at 4:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon and headed straight from the Pennsylvania station to the Waldorf. In five minutes he stood in the grand ballroom of the hotel pinning a gold eagle to his coat and thanking the New York commandery of the Military Order of Foreign Wars for making him a member. Mr. Taft told Amory F. Carhart of the foreign wars order, who presented him with the insignia, that he did not know just how he qualified for membership in the society, but he was grateful, anyhow.

From the Waldorf the president went to the home of his brother, Henry W. Taft, to dress, and then to the home of Miss Winifred Holt to dine. Next he went to the Metropolitan Opera House to open the industrial exhibition of the blind, and thence to the armory of the Seventy-first regiment to review the regiment. He had supper with the Hungarian Republican club at the Cafe Boulevard, and spent the night at H. W. Taft's.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Taft went to the home of Henry Clews for luncheon. In the evening he will attend the annual dinner of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers' association at the Waldorf, will look in at the dinner of the Methodist Social Union at Sherry's, a dinner of the Aeronautical Society at the Astor, and a dinner given to J. Van Vechten Olcott at the Astor by the business men of that congressman's district. The president will leave for Washington at midnight.

DON'T KISS THE BABY NOW THE INJUNCTION

Health Board Moves Against Dangerous Practice.

Indianapolis, April 27.—Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the state board of health, has started a movement to overcome the maudlin sentiment that prompts the habitual baby kisser, and his weapon is publicity.

In addition to the publicity of the newspapers and periodicals which are issued by the state board, Dr. Hurty will make use of the anti-disease exhibit which the board has been carrying over the state for the education of the people.

A large placard has been prepared, and on the placard are pictures of "some of the sweetest babies in the world." Babies are popularly supposed just to dote on being kissed, whereas, if they could tell what they really think about it, some of the confirmed baby kissers would be astounded. Since the babies can't say it, Dr. Hurty is saying it for them—saying it by means of the placards. Here are some of the things Dr. Hurty will say for the babies: "Don't kiss me—you're been smoking"; "Don't kiss me—your mouth is full of microbes"; "Don't kiss me—you'll probably give me tuberculosis"; "Keep your germs to yourself—don't force me to take them"; "My lips are clean—why do you wish to spoil them?"; "I'm well—why make me liable to disease by kissing me, when I don't want to be kissed?"; "Don't take a mean advantage of me because I am little and helpless"; "Don't endanger this precious health I have."

ATTACHING RUBBERS TO SHOES

After wearing rubbers a few times, they will become a little larger and fit loosely over the shoes. Sometimes the looseness is quite annoying and when walking in slush and muddy paths it is almost impossible to keep the rubbers on. This trouble is prevented by attaching the tongue and button as shown in the sketch. A tongue is fastened to the upper part of the back on each rubber and a button sewed on the back of each shoe. The tongue has a hole for the button.—From Popular Mechanics Magazine.

RUEF TEACHES BIBLE.

Former San Francisco Boss Conducts Class in Prison.

Abe Ruef, who is serving a fourteen year sentence in San Quentin for bribery, has started an evening Bible class for convicts which promises to be popular.

Ruef found his two cellmates reading trashy novels, so from dinner time until the lights went out he talked to them about the Bible.

They told others, and soon Ruef had a score of auditors. Now he has agreed to deliver a series of sermons in the prison chapel on Sundays. Ruef is an excellent talker. He says the Bible has been his chief reliance in time of trouble.

Ruef has been buying books of mechanics and agriculture for the prison circulating library, and he has urged convicts to read them so that they may be prepared for useful work when discharged.

The women of Brownstown were given an opportunity Monday of expressing themselves by ballot upon the local option question. Sample ballots were distributed in every home in town and later collected by a committee of the W. C. T. U. All women and girls over sixteen were eligible to vote. Novel Incubator.

Captain Bryant has an inventive original turn of mind and the thought occurred to him a few weeks ago that the heat generated by a hive of bees might be used to hatch eggs. So he tacked a piece of linen across the inside of the bee hive, immediately above the bees, and on this he placed raw cotton and deposited nineteen Indian Runner duck eggs in the bee "incubator." The eggs were covered with more cotton and that with a piece of deer-skin with the hair left on, and over that a board was placed so that all the heat generated by the bees would be retained in the cotton. In due time the eggs began hatching and up to date ten lusty ducklings have been lifted out of their cotton nest. One of the bee-hatched ducklings has a well-developed third leg dangling from the upper rear part of its body. The eggs were secured from the Bradt Indian Runner Duck farm. Mrs. Bradt insists that the three-legged freak is not due to the strain of poultry but to the baby duck's instinctive desire for more legs to make his early escape from the neighborhood of the bees. Captain Bryant is well pleased with the success of his experiment and expresses his intention to run his bee-incubator all summer.—Versailles Republican.

CHICAGO'S WOMAN BOSS.

Mrs. Kate Doyle, Who Got Votes For the Harrisons, Dead.

Mrs. Kate Doyle, who became known as Chicago's foremost woman politician through her activities in behalf of the members of the Harrison family in their political campaigns since the father of the present mayor elect was a candidate for congress in 1873, is dead.

Mrs. Doyle, who was seventy-six years old, entered the Harrison family as a nurse in 1864. In the following nine years she became acquainted with many of the Irish voters of the city, assuming a political leadership over them that became an important element in the political affairs of the city.

When Carter H. Harrison, Sr., became a candidate for congress in 1873 Mrs. Doyle began her career as an active politician. By her acquaintance with the Irish voters of the city she was enabled to give the Harrison forces material assistance in the campaign. Election day she visited the polls at the head of her forces, all of whom cast their ballots for Harrison. When Carter H. Harrison, Jr., began his political career Mrs. Doyle did effective work among the voters.

$2,495 IN OLD LOUNGE.

Cart Horse Backed Into It and the Money Fell Out.

Glistening coins and crumpled bills to the amount of $2,495 greeted the eyes of Peter J. Pitts, a teamster, when a restless cart horse backed a wagon over a discarded lounge which had been thrown out into an East Boston street.

Pitts was in the act of loading refuse from some old buildings which were being torn down when a wheel of the wagon broke the lounge to bits. A bundle wrapped in cloth fell out. Pitts opened it carelessly, but when his eyes rested on the coins he gave the laborers a share of the money, and a holiday was at once declared on the whole job.

CENTENARY OF BIRTH OF HARRIET BEECHER STOWE

Son and Grandson of Author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Write Her Life.

In June the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Harriet Beecher Stowe will be widely celebrated. A new life of the "little woman who made the great war," as Lincoln called her, is about to come from the press, written by her son, Charles Edward Stowe, and her grandson, Lyman Beecher Stowe.

Among the most interesting of the facts it brings out is that it never occurred to the "little woman" that there was anything about "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in the least likely to precipitate a war. She wrote the book with the kindest feelings toward the south, and her aim was to be not only just, but generous.

To begin with, Mrs. Stowe was not of the extreme abolitionist type. It was her firm belief that the better element in the south hated slavery and that this element was much larger than was commonly supposed. Then, too, while she loathed the system with all her heart, she was willing to believe that it took more often than not the kindly patriarchal form.

She gave Uncle Tom three masters, and two of them were kind. She made one of her plantation owners detest slavery and free his slaves. She wanted to make the north understand that the best southerners would co-operate with them in a reasonable attempt to do away with the evil.

Never was a little woman more surprised to find herself execrated. Her feeling had been when she first wrote the book that it would displease the abolitionists and bring sympathetic response from the south—that is, if anybody ever read it at all, which she had doubted.

When the book appeared the world turned topsy turvy for her. People in the south who had not read the book or who had read it with their minds made up beforehand thought her some sort of monster. A cousin who lived in Georgia did not dare put the name of Mrs. Stowe on the envelope when she wrote to her. She was asked if it was possible such a woman could be received in decent society in the north.

Mrs. Stowe found herself, in short, put in a class of agitators with whom she had never belonged, and the poor little dove of peace she had sent out came back with its feathers ruffled beyond recognition.

None the less, though she was bitterly disappointed at the attitude of the south, she would not forsake her guns. She claimed, and the facts presented in the new life amply bear out the statement, that there was nothing in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" not based on actual occurrences.

GEN. BERNARDO REYES

Former Mexican War Secretary
Who Is Returning to Help Diaz.

Paris, April 26.—General Bernardo Reyes, formerly Mexican secretary of war, will leave for Mexico within a fortnight, perhaps within a week.

TALK OF PEACE TAKEN
ONLY AT FACE VALUEWar Department Not Deceived
By Negotiations.

San Antonio, April 26.—That the Washington government is not taking at their face value the peace negotiations that are pending under an armistice between the armies of Francisco I. Madero and General Navarro at Juarez, indications of sudden activity by the war department, the exact nature of which cannot be made public at the present time, gives proof.

It may be said in view of the sudden development that has been manifested here that while Mexico City and the Mexican insurgents' junta at Washington are both voicing confidence in the peaceful outcome of the conference of the belligerents over the Rio Grande, the secretary of war and the members of the general staff are not allowing themselves to believe that a repetition of the dangerous situation that arose in Douglas, Ariz., is beyond the bounds of possibility.

Before the end of this week these officers of the government and Mr. Taft will be more fully informed, perhaps, on certain conditions affecting the situation along the Mexican border than they are now. Peace may come, but it appears to be the opinion that there is much they should know and that they should know it as soon as possible.

Ravages of the Plague. London, April 26.—The official figures of the ravages of the bubonic plague in the central provinces of India show the appalling total of 95,884 deaths from the disease in March. The fatalities during February were 43,508.

Motorcycle Victim Dead. Lafayette, Ind., April 26.—Edward Vonderau, aged nineteen, of New Haven, a student at Purdue, is dead from a fractured skull sustained when he rode a motorcycle into the steel of the Wabash river bridge here.

FINE PROBLEM
FOR LAWYERS

Fight to Be Made for McNamara's Return.

EXTRADITION WAS ILLEGAL

This Is Contention Set Up by Forces of Organized Labor and If Way Can Be Found to Do So, Demand Will Be Made Upon California to Send Iron Workers' Secretary Back to Indiana as a Kidnapped Person.

Indianapolis, April 26.—A movement, backed by all the influence of organized labor as represented in this city by the international officers of six organizations, has been started to force the return here of J. J. McNamara, secretary-treasurer of the iron workers, on the ground that he was taken unlawfully from the state. As outlined by one of the national union officers, the arrests for kidnapping were made with a view to bringing out the fact that McNamara was not permitted to employ a lawyer or make any defense before the court to which he was taken for identification. They have been advised that as the crime with which he is charged was not committed in this state, he was illegally taken from it by the detectives, and there will be an effort to have him returned.

At a meeting of the principal officers of most of the unions which have international headquarters in Indianapolis, held at the building of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, the structural iron workers were assured of the support of the other unions. It is admitted that the purpose was to consider the McNamara case in its aspect of a capitalistic effort against organized labor.

It is said that no steps were taken to start a campaign among all the international organizations looking toward the raising of a defense fund for McNamara, but several times during the meeting it was said that there was no doubt the allied unions would stand together and help finance a fight to the last ditch. Presumably to take the leadership of the legal contest that will be waged by the labor leaders on behalf of J. J. McNamara and other union men who have been arrested on charges of dynamiting, Clarence S. Darrow of Chicago is here and has begun an investigation of the dynamiting cases.

Mr. Darrow denied that he had been employed in the case. He said he came particularly to look into the manner in which J. J. McNamara was extradited from Indiana, and to investigate the surrounding circumstances. He was doubtful, from the examination he had made of the law, that the extradition had been accomplished in a strictly legal manner. The unions expect Mr. Darrow to duplicate the feat by which he wrested Moyer, Pettibone and Haywood of the Western Federation of Miners from the agencies that sought their lives to avenge the death of Governor Steunenberg of Idaho.

William J. Burns, the detective who worked up the case against McNamara, was arrested on a kidnapping charge late yesterday afternoon, just after he had left the hotel where he had been in hiding all day from constables. Constable Wilson made the arrest after following Burns from the hotel. Burns said he was on his way to give himself up, having known of the warrant. Burns was released under $10,000 bond and will remain in the city for two or three days completing his evidence against McNamara.

THEY CUT IT OUT

Britons Fancied Americans Might Not Like This Part of the Show.

London, April 26.—In order not to wound the susceptibilities of American visitors, the executive committee of the festival of empire, which will be held at the Crystal Palace, and which will be one of the features of the coronation season, has decided to eliminate a scene representing the battle of Chateaugay, in which a large invading American force is overwhelmed by a handful of Canadians.

This step was taken after an interchange of cablegrams between London and Washington on the subject. The spectacle was to have been Canada's principal contribution to the pageant. As a result of the official action, the hint was conveyed to the Canadian committee, of which Lord Strathcona is chairman, and the scene was thereupon withdrawn and a harmless historical episode substituted. The opinion is expressed in official quarters and by the organizers of the festival that the spectacle would cause such hostility in the United States as to endanger the proposed arbitration treaty.

Engines Under Fire Debris.

South Bend, Ind., April 26.—The Michigan division of the Big Four railroad, from Anderson, Ind., to Benton Harbor, Mich., is practically without motive power as the result of a disastrous fire which destroyed the large terminal roundhouse at Benton Harbor. The loss is placed at $30,000. Four new locomotives were in the building and were buried under the mass of debris.

VICTOR BERGER

Wants Congress to Look Into McNamara's Arrest.

CONGRESS ASKED TO LOOK INTO THE CASE

Berger Would Have "Kidnaping" Charge Investigated.

Washington, April 26.—The sole Socialist member of the house, Victor Berger of Milwaukee, wants congress to investigate the circumstances surrounding the arrest of John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' association, for complicity in the Los Angeles dynamite outrage. Socialist Berger has introduced the following: "Whereas, it is reported in the public press that one J. J. McNamara, heretofore residing in the city of Indianapolis, Ind., has been deprived of liberty and put in jeopardy of his life without due process of law; therefore be it

"Resolved by the house of representatives, the senate concurring, That a committee of each house be appointed to investigate the arrest and extradition of said McNamara and to report its findings to the two houses at the earliest practicable moment."

Mr. Berger gave out this interview on the subject:

"On the face of it the McNamara case looks like a conspiracy of the National Erectors' association against the iron workers' union. The methods used to railroad McNamara out of Indianapolis show that the guilt is on the private detective and the Indiana state officials who helped them trample on the vital principles underlying the constitution of the United States.

"Leaving out the question of a person's guilt or innocence, every American is entitled to consult an attorney when arrested and to have a hearing within twenty-four hours. All constitutional rights were, however, denied to McNamara in this case."

Representative Stanley of Kentucky, a member of the committee on rules, commenting on the Berger resolution, said: "These men who arrested McNamara and other labor men are not government officers. For that reason congress has nothing to do with the matter. It is a criminal case and does not call for a government investigation." This opinion of Stanley's on the subject is of the more importance inasmuch as he is known as an ardent friend of labor and has always heretofore rushed to its support on all occasions.

ACCEPTED INVITATION

But Not Until He Saw the State Had Him Hemmed In.

New York, April 26.—"And I'll have you know that the way of the philanthropist is hard," Andrew Carnegie told the grand jury after he had insisted for an hour that the use of his name by the Carnegie Trust company was a fraud and that he had never given assurances to anybody at any time that he would help the trust company out of the mire.

The philanthropist was not eager to visit the grand jury room. He held back until the district attorney told him that unless he came on invitation the square surrounding his home would be sentinelled by subpoena servers. Mr. Carnegie thought the matter over and said that since the state needed him at once he would accept the informal invitation.

More Option Elections.

Indianapolis, April 26.—The township in which Fort Branch, Gibson county, is situated, and the township in which Lyons, Greene county, is situated, went wet in Tuesday's option elections. Other elections were won by the dries as follows: One township in Greene, one in Pike, one in St. Joseph, one in Sullivan, one in Tipton and three in Washington, including the city of Salem.

Before
Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. Orville Rock, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Mich.

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of woman's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."—Mrs. Margaret Meredith, R. F. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

In Bad Fix

"I had a mishap at the age of 41, which left me in bad fix," writes Mrs. Georgia Usher, of Conyers, Ga. "I was unconscious for three days, and after that I would have fainting spells, dizziness, nervousness, sick headache, heart palpitation and many strange feelings. "I suffered greatly with ailments due to the change of life and had 3 doctors, but they did no good, so I concluded to try Cardui.

"Since taking Cardui, I am so much better and can do all my housework."

CHAPTER XIX.

WITHIN two hours the camp was struck. The count and I met as the forces were about to move.

"I have only just heard of your return, Sir Verrall. I congratulate you."

I thanked him.

"Is it by your advice that we move the camp tonight?" he asked.

"No. I had no idea such a movement was contemplated. You would have had a freer hand, count, had you not brought her highness upon this expedition."

"I made a mistake," he answered.

"A grave one, count. You must have a care that it does not lead you to destruction."

"You speak in riddles, Sir Verrall."

"Not such deep ones but that you can read them," I answered. "Indeed, it is a warning that I give rather than a riddle I ask. Your friends may be many, Count Vasca, but you have many enemies too."

"One stands before me," he said quickly.

"It is well to know how we stand toward each other, Count Vasca. I always watch my enemies."

"And I always crush mine, Sir Verrall, sooner or later. You may yet regret that you have avowed yourself my enemy."

"I come but recently from Yadasara, count. I heard enough to make me glad that I am not your friend."

"You choose a coward's time to speak your insults—a time when it is impossible for me to punish you."

"The time will come, count."

"It shall come," he hissed.

He turned from me and disappeared in the darkness.

I was as far as ever from discovering how matured the count's plans were. I judged that the hurried moving of the camp did not suit his schemes altogether, but that it would have the effect of frustrating them I doubted. He would not have ventured upon such treachery had he not every prospect of success, and my hopes grew weaker as the main body and the right wing moved forward. If they were all traitors what hope was there?

Sir Valen thoroughly trusted the left wing, and I was more inclined to think that he did so justly when I saw the pleasure of the men at the fact that the princess was to ride among them. They welcomed me too.

It was a difficult night march. Under ordinary circumstances it would have been a foolish one. The woods were thick and the paths through them narrow. The men were forced in places to straggle and push forward in twos and threes. We instructed the men that in case of attack they were to fall back and surround the princess. Her protection was to be their special care. This arranged, Sir Valen took command, keeping as close to the main body as possible, while Jasar and I rode on either side of the princess. Jasar was mounted on a strong animal, and I saw a sword hilt peep from under his cloak.

The stumbling of Jasar's horse startled me.

"Heard you anything besides the tramping of our men, Sir Verrall?" he asked.

"No. Where?"

"To our right. Listen!"

I pulled up my horse. So did Daria hers.

I could hear the steady tramp of our own men around us, but there was another sound away to our right, a faint echoing tramp.

"An echo, I think."

And then, as if in contradiction, there came a clear sound, the jingle of harness, faint, but clear, as when in a company of horsemen several of the animals throw their heads up at the same time and shake their bridles.

"That cannot be an echo."

We rode on again and, overtaking a knight, I told him to hurry forward and tell Sir Valen that I believed the enemy were marching with us through the woods. Presently the knight I had sent forward returned. Sir Valen had instructed the men to go slowly and to keep well together, and he wanted me to make sure that I had plenty of men behind me to repulse any attack which might be made in the rear. Leaving the princess in Jasar's charge, I rode back and got the rear portion of the left wing close up. With an effort I spoke gayly to the men, and I was convinced now that they were to be trusted. Then I rejoined Daria and Jasar.

"It would be well to send forward to the count and call a halt," I said. "We are approaching open country, and we cannot tell what awaits us there."

"Act as you think best," Daria answered.

I sent forward to Vasca. The troops halted immediately, and a few minutes afterward Vasca himself joined us.

"A perilous journey, your highness, but well accomplished," he said. "After a short halt shall we move forward and camp in the open? Our vanguard is now at the edge of the woods."

"The open country may bring us in sight of the enemy, Sir Vasca,"

"Your highness will remember that it was not my wish to advance tonight. I, too, think it probable that the enemy are before us."

"They have been marching with us all night, count," I said. "Their movements were so well timed with ours that they must have been watching the camp."

"That is unlikely. Still, if it is so, we are prepared to meet them. I trust."

"Quite prepared," I answered. "True men have no fear even if numbers are against them."

I left him with Daria, Jasar keeping watch upon him, and joined Valen.

"Is the trap set for us, think you?" I asked.

"I do not know. We may have got out of it in time."

"At last you believe in the trap, then?"

"I cannot understand such villainy," he answered. "Yet—"

"Yet you believe it exists?"

"Why, yes, Verrall. Unwillingly I am bound to admit that I believe it."

"Pick me a dozen men," I said. "I am going to ride forward and see what is in store for us."

With my little company I went through the woods, keeping well away from the main body, but being careful not to go far enough to fall in with the enemy, who had kept pace with us through the night. In the gray dawn the enemy were taking up their position, ready to attack us as soon as we were in the open.

We went slowly and silently back. Life has an added charm when death stands near. The day had dawned, and, like myself, I doubt not that many of my companions wondered if they would see the close of it. Was there any way of insuring safety even for some of us? There was one way which held a prospect of success. I had thought of it before, but had put it aside as impracticable and dangerous, yet now it seemed worthy of consideration. Why not make Count Vasca a prisoner? It could be done quickly and quietly if he were still with the princess. Should he try out there were many ways of silencing him. It seemed to me that it would be a small crime to silence so great a scoundrel forever. It was dangerous and would bring matters to a head suddenly.

Daria might not agree to this seeming piece of treachery, so I determined to make him a prisoner first and explain to her afterward.

I put spurs into my horse, but I was too late. Vasca had left.

A messenger was dispatched at once. Safety seemed to lie in Vasca's capture, and here was my opportunity. I drew Valen aside for a moment.

"He must not return," I said.

"Is that the princess' order?"

"No. Make him a prisoner first, ask her permission afterward. It is no time to be courteous."

"It may be a false move," he said doubtfully.

"Possibly, but it may be salvation," I answered. "Players for high stakes, Sir Valen, have to risk much."

But again my plan failed. The count excused himself from coming. The enemy was moving in the open, he said, and he could not leave his command.

"Are our troops moving?" asked Daria.

"They were about to do so, your highness," the messenger answered.

"Go to the count and command him not to move until he has our instructions. A guard for us, gentlemen. Sir Valen, move the left wing slowly forward, but not out of the wood. Keep in touch with the main body."

She mounted her horse lightly, Jasar holding her stirrup. "Sir Verrall, gentlemen, follow us. We will fight this battle our way, not in Count Vasca's."

She would have inspired any man with courage. She put a better spirit into me.

"Have a care, dear one," I whispered as I rode beside her.

"Have a ready sword to defend me if necessary," she answered.

We rode up to the count even as the messenger was delivering his message.

"We sent for you, count," she said severely.

"Pardon, your highness, but I could not come."

"We sent for you," she repeated.

"Have you yet to learn the virtue of obedience?"

"Your highness, I—"

"Disobedience is the mark of a rebel, Count Vasca. Look to it or we shall be in danger of misjudging you. Do you only now discover that the enemy are before us? You have a poor knowledge of this campaign, it seems. The main body will advance at once into the open. The woods sweep round to right and left in a semicircle. The enemy are hidden there awaiting us. Your mission is to draw them from their hiding place." Then, turning to a knight with us, she went on: "Go to the right wing and command them to advance through the woods and attack the enemy in the rear on that side. There are half hearted warriors among us. We shall know how to deal with rebels. For Drussenland and for your princess, forward!"

I half expected the count to refuse, but he did not do so. Either he was uncertain of himself or the plans for success were so complete that the manner of attack was of little importance.

He gave a quick word of command, and as the troops moved we rode back and with the left wing set out to attack the enemy on that side.

There was a distant shout, and a flight of arrows fell among them.

"If a stray shaft should find a weak spot in Vasca's harness, all might be well yet," I said to Valen.

"He is not likely to run much risk," he answered.

"You are convinced now, then?"

"Yes, Verrall. It will go hard with us, I think, but at least we'll make history today. We shall have the enemy and the traitors before us, and we'll fight as we fought at the bridge. Traitors are mostly cowards, and they shall pay a dear reckoning."

Horsemen came from the woods on either side, and the battle in the open became general.

The princess halted.

"Those men fight like fiends," she said. "The treachery is not so deeply rooted as you supposed, Sir Verrall."

"A few men's lives are nothing to those who conceived the treachery," said Jasar.

"The greater the confusion yonder the more safety for us," I said to Valen.

"Our turn will come. We have only to wait," he answered.

With him I arranged what knights were to keep with the princess.

"She will want you with her," he said.

"When the time comes I ride side by side with you," I answered.

"I am glad," he returned.

We had not long to wait. From the woods opposite a large body of horsemen came slowly. I expected to see them charge into the thick of the fight, but instead they suddenly made a wide sweep and came toward us. Our archers sent one flight of arrows among them, and then we charged.

Powerful as the enemy before us were, they could not withstand our charge. We cut into them, sweeping them back in confusion. The same spirit was in us all. No quarter was asked for nor given, and many a rider, friend and foe, lay with limbs outstretched, his day's work and his life's work over. We turned and swept back again to the foot of the rising ground on which Daria stood with the company especially reserved to defend her. They greeted us with a cheer, and we shouted answer. It sounded like a cry of victory.

"They were driven back upon the main body, Sir Verrall. The face of the battle is changing."

Valen pointed with his sword. The fight which had begun fiercely was lessening. Our true enemies and our traitor friends were beginning to understand one another.

"We have shown them the men they have to reckon with," I answered.

Some show of fighting was still maintained in front of us, and our archers sent quick flights of arrows into the mass. They were all enemies there, though they would not have us think so yet. Then a mass of horsemen came toward us at a hand gallop.

"Does Vasca lead them?" I asked.

"I cannot see him," Valen answered. "You must live until later in the day to pay your debt to him."

"I shall live to do it," I answered as we charged again.

I felt that I spoke the truth.

It was a fiercer struggle than the first. Twice I was nearly thrown from my saddle, once, for a few moments, losing all consciousness of my surroundings and striking madly about me as a man might do in a nightmare. It was fortunate for me that my horse kept his legs. It was Valen's voice that brought me back to consciousness.

"Not too far, Verrall. They are surrounding us."

Mechanically almost I swung my horse round, and we began to fight our way back. Valen's warning opened my eyes to the danger, and the press of the enemy, who had closed in behind us as we had fought our way through the mass in front, told me that they had outmaneuvered us. Even now we were too late. There was a triumphant shout as another body of horsemen went by our struggling mass and rode straight for the rising ground.

What could that little company do against such an overpowering enemy?

"For the princess!" I shouted, rising in my stirrups and swinging my sword with the renewed strength despair gave me. "Back to the princess, every one of us! We'll leave our bodies there, not here."

"For the princess!" some one shouted, and we dashed forward.

It was no small body of horsemen that turned to prevent us cutting our way to our comrades, but at least five to one.

"For the princess!" we cried.

"For the king!" they shouted answer.

Side by side Valen and I went, inch by inch fighting our way toward the rising ground, encouraging each other, helping each other. How our companions fared I know not. Valen and I seemed to be alone in the midst of enemies. Still we went on step by step. There seemed no power strong enough to stop us. Success seemed certain when suddenly I was alone. A rush of horsemen parted us, and I saw my comrade carried away from me, hard beset. Still the fight was not lost. I shouted to him, and he heard me. I saw the horsemen nearest to him go down as he turned, fighting his way back to me, and I pressed my horse forward to meet him. And we succeeded. We did meet, but at what a cost! Even as I shouted in triumph a sword flashed above him and fell, splitting through his armor near the neck.

"The princess!" he cried once, loudly as in full health, and then he pitched forward from his saddle and lay almost under my horse's hoofs.

I cut down the man who struck the blow, and, my horse stumbling, I came to the ground, falling across the bodies of my friend and my foe.

I was unhurt and sprang to my feet. A clear space was round me. With his sword in his hand Count Vasca looked at me. He did not ride at me at once, but he smiled.

"The time has come, Sir Verrall," he said.

It was his smile, not his words, which maddened me.

"Ah, good, foeman," I cried, "grant me but a little space to prove this man a coward and a liar, and on my oath I will throw down my sword and you can work your will upon me."

RETRENCHMENT POLICY

Adopted on the Pennsylvania as well as on the B. & O.

The retrenchment policy is as much in evidence on the Pennsylvania lines as on the B. & O. and all the men who can be dispensed with are being let out.

Cut expenses is the slogan and only enough men to operate the road efficiently are being retained. A railroad man at Columbus estimates that fully 200 men have been laid off on the Louisville division.

The block station south of the freight office in Seymour was not the only one to be abolished. The block telegraph station south of Indianapolis, Rowe north of Franklin and Elvin south of the same city, were abolished and it is expected that the one at North Columbus will go next.

The section gangs have been cut, the number of switch engines in the Columbus yards has been reduced and the Columbus Republican states that the gravel pit near Edinburg, will not be opened this year.

It is asserted that business is growing worse and the number of idle cars on the sidings is given as an evidence of this.

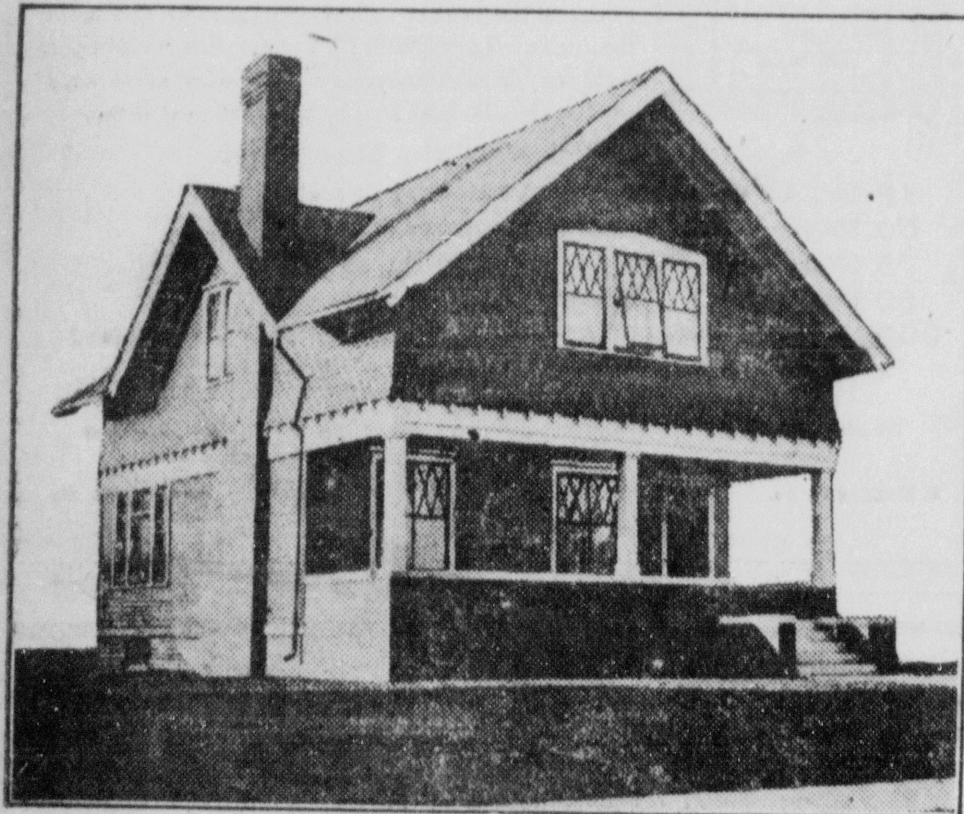

Mrs. Jason Brown was awarded the water heater at the Majestic theatre Wednesday afternoon by the Seymour Public Service Co. The attendance at Mr. Draper's demonstrations grows each day. Tomorrow, the closing afternoon, he will plunk a white fish on the gas range.

SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

This interior arrangement deserves its popularity in that it contains all modern conveniences without an inch of waste space. From a vestibule one enters a large living room. At one end is an open fireplace, at the other a beautifully designed stairway with built-in seats. The built-in sideboard is a feature greatly in demand. Birch floors throughout, birch or Washington fir finish in first story, pine to paint in second story. The foundation and piazza walls are faced with red pressed brick. Size of house, 26 by 28 feet. Cost to build, exclusive of heating and plumbing, $2,400.

WIN MOST OF THEIR POINTS

Mexican Insurrectos Faring Quite Well Indeed.

MADERO HAVING HIS OWN WAY

From the Nature of the Terms Already Agreed to in the Peace Negotiations It is Apparent That the Diaz Government is Willing to Concede the Most Vital of the Points Insisted on by the Insurrectos.

El Paso, Tex., April 27.—In the Madero "White House" a mile north of the camp peace negotiations are progressing most satisfactorily. Madero has consented to carry on the negotiations by wire and most of the points at issue will be settled, if not all, before the commissioners get together to put them on paper and formally ratify them. It can be said that agreements have already been reached bearing on elections by which no officers in office will come up for re-election; also that all revolutionary debts contracted will be paid by the federal government and that revolutionists injured or killed will be revolutionized under the same law that applies to soldiers and their families in the federal army. The insurrectos are to take their arms home with them. This also is agreed to. Madero is still in favor of having all negotiations carried on from here and does not favor transferring the meeting of peace commissioners elsewhere.

The insurrectos encamped in the mountains northwest and west of Juarez apparently have settled down for a good long stay of it. They are making permanent camp. Along the sides of the arroyos and draws the men are burrowing holes into the earth for sleeping places, and in many instances tents have been secured for protection. All the officers now have tents and a number of the men have them who can buy them.

SEIZED AN ISLAND

Dutch Sea Captain Takes Over Part of Our Possessions.

Washington, April 27.—The Dutch flag has been raised on Talmes Island in the Philippines, the island being claimed by a Dutch sea captain in the name of Holland. Talmes is a small coconut island about sixty miles southeast of Mindanao, and is one of the islands included in the treaty with Spain and to which the United States claims ownership. There are about 300 natives on the islands.

Government authorities here say that the question of ownership was raised about two years ago by a Dutch sea captain, who contended that he had discovered the island and that it belonged to Holland. The authorities doubted if any serious claim would be made by Holland to the island. If the island has been seized they are of the opinion that it was taken by some Dutchmen who were not acting by authority of the Holland government.

SLAIN BY THUG

Chief of Nickel Plate Detectives Meets Death on Duty.

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 27.—Harry Noble, chief of Nickel Plate railroad detectives, who was shot at Bellevue, O., Monday by thugs, is dead. It is now believed that Crandall and Russell, under arrest at Norwalk, O., for shooting Noble, are the two men who held up and shot William Vanness, a Wabash brakeman, in Fort Wayne Saturday night. Vanness will recover, and because of the murder charges against the men in Ohio no attempt will be made to bring them to Fort Wayne.

EXPRESSES REGRET

Ex-Convict Sorry His Shot Didn't Kill Wife.

South Bend, Ind., April 27.—In a fit of anger over a trivial matter, Grant Winrott, formerly in the penitentiary at Michigan City, shot and wounded his wife and three-year-old daughter at their home north of here. Mrs. Winrott's condition is serious and she may die. The child is better. The act was premeditated, according to Winrott's own statements to the police, by whom he was arrested two hours after the crime. He expressed regret that he had not killed his wife.

DR. B. CLARK HYDE

Given a New Trial on Swope Murder Charge.

Kansas City, April 27.—Dr. B. C. Hyde, under a life sentence of imprisonment for the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope, has been released from the county jail on a writ of habeas corpus. The Hyde case recently was reversed and remanded for a new trial by the supreme court.

REBATING CHARGES ARE TO BE PUSHED

Indictments At Cleveland Stir Things Up.

Cleveland, O., April 27.—Secret indictments against Dan R. Hanna, Robert L. Ireland of the M. A. Hanna company, and D. T. McCabe, fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania company, and seventeen indictments against the Lake Shore, Pennsylvania, Bessemer & Lake Erie, and the Nickel Plate railroads have been returned by the federal grand jury which has been investigating charges of rebating against railroads and ore shippers in this section. Conspiracy on the part of the railroads, ore shippers and dock companies in granting rebates is charged. No arrests have been made. The three individuals are charged in the indictments with conspiring to violate the Elkins law. A maximum penalty of two years in the prison and a $10,000 fine is provided by law.

D. R. Hanna and D. T. McCabe are indicted on the charge of signing a contract under which the Hanna company is alleged to have promised to rebate to individual shippers the profits of the Ohio and Western Pennsylvania company, which is also indicted. The dock company was organized by M. A. Hanna & Co., and the docks themselves were leased by the Pennsylvania company to the Hanna interests. One exhibit alone shows the alleged payment of $50,111.93 as part of the earnings of the dock company to the Carnegie Steel company.

As a result of the investigation which resulted in the indictments, suits will be begun against subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation.

The Kentucky court of appeals has decided that no punishment may be inflicted for shipping whisky from Indiana to a local option county in Kentucky.

There was a rule in the family that each child should be paid $100 for each year he or she remained at home after reaching the age of 21. The claim allowed today was for the eight years which one of the sons spent at home after attaining his majority.
